ABOUT WEDNESDAY MORNING. . .

I don't know how many yards of features and oil news Lloyd "Dick" Albertson bylined for this newspaper the past 15 years.

His sources and his recap of oil developments, which now are more often lignite developments, were accurate. This newspaper often was quoted in the San Antonio daily oil coverage by oil editor Nancy Heard, who happened to live in the town where oil well data was filed with the Texas Railroad Commission. That's what I mean by accurate.

The Herald carried his byline Lloyd Albertson, but his friends called him, Dick, though he seemed more like Lloyd to me. I don't know why.

Dick was 76. He continued to say "I'd like to get into the newspaper game fulltime someday," like he'd said that at least 10 years.

What hooked him was a challenge I suggested in 1959, the year before the Herald's 100th anniversary, tracing lineage through the Cameron Centinel.

I asked him to do long, survey articles on aspects of Herald and Milam County history. We had the microfilm, and he had the time. And he took it.

Using two or three viewers, he read every roll of microfilm from Herald files, every page dating from 1895 through 1959. It took him about 18 months. Too long perhaps, but he was thorough.

He wrote pulp fiction under a pseudonymn. When I found that talent in Cameron, I urged him to write whatever suited. His work in the long, rambling, but accurate features for that Centennial edition set the tone for the paper's long "look back." Dick was a dedicated researcher.

He did the basic features for an agri-business section a few years later which caught the eye of agriculturists all the way to the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture in Washington. Again, the research was deadly accurate. He wrote for magazine sections of newspapers in Houston and San Antonio.

Guardsmen here will remember Herald features about the Cameron unit, of which he was a member. He was one of the writers at the dedication of the Cameron Armory, highlighted by then Senator Lyndon Johnson's speech, which anticipated a candidacy in 1960.

Dick was a pro, a bachelor, a man who tended an invalided brother for years, a veteran, a friend.

He was a slightly built man who lived alone with his typewriter and his correspondence and copy for this newspaper and a few other publications. He walked with some difficulty for any distance and he talked haltingly sometimes. His mind, though, his mind worked those fingers.

I never got the idea he was lonely, only that he lived alone with his features and his notes and the memories a man of 76 possessed.

He and I went to Fort Worth in June to see the presentation of the Governor's Beautification Award won by Cameron this year. Dick enjoyed eating with the press and photographers. And he covered that story because he wanted to.

I don't know how many times we talked about "this old town's chances of doing something yet," which is pretty close to the way he said it.

But then, he sorta dropped out of sight. Until Tuesday. I helped carry a box they said Dick Albertson was in. I've never been a pallbearer in my life.

I don't believe it. I've seen too much of that twice-folded, double-spaced Albertson stuff in the copy basket.

He would be embarrassed if his oil story were turned down. Edited, maybe, but not used? Hardly.

I expect him in next week. About Wednesday morning. . .

Service Held For Lloyd Albertson, Herald Writer

Lloyd L. Albertson, 76, long-time writer for The Herald, died Sunday in a Temple hospital following an extended illness.

Funeral was at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Green Funeral Home in Cameron with the Rev. Don Waddell officiating. Burial was in Oaklawn Cemetery in Rockdale.

A native of Rockdale, Mr. Albertson had lived in Cameron for the past 40 years. He was a freelance writer and also wrote oil news and features for The Herald for many years.

He was a World War II veteran and had served in the National Guard.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Waddell of Milano; an aunt, Miss Lura Albertson of Milano; two nephews, Dr. Earl Waddell of Houston and Rev. Don Waddell of Wichita Falls; and one niece, Mrs. Betty McCoy of Austin.

Weekend Fire Calls Keep Volunteers Busy

Cameron volunteer firemen were called out to two fires Monday and three over the weekend, with some damage but no injuries reported.

A two-wheel trailer loaded with insulation caught fire and burned at 9:45 a.m. Monday in front of Safeway on Fourth St. And at 10 a.m. Monday firemen were called to a grassfire three miles west of Cameron on Highway 36.

An electrical fire in the outside wall of a house at 1600 Fannin called firemen out at 12:45 p.m. Saturday. Then there was a pickup on fire reported at 6 p.m. Saturday, with no injury reported.

Sunday a call came in at 7:45 a.m. which turned out to be a false alarm. A neighbor spotted what was thought to be smoke rising from a roof at 415 W. Tyson, but it turned out to be steam.

FIRE SAFETY TOLD

With the advent of cold weather, firemen are reminding residents about rules of safety to prevent fires, and action to take in case fire breaks out.

For instance, fires in fireplaces and wood-burning stoves should be started with an approved starter, not explosive liquids such as gasoline or paint thinner. A good charcoal starter is recommended for use in starting fires, but the liquid should not be squirted on the fire after it has started.

Some other rules recommended by firemen include:

1. When a fire breaks out in your home or office, get out immediately. A fire can spread faster than you can run. Even if you smell smoke, get out.

2. If you find smoke in an open stairway or hall, use another preplanned way out.

3. If you escape through smoke, stay near the floor where the air is better. Take short breaths, breathe through your nose, and crawl to an exit.

4. Make sure your family knows the quickest and safest ways to escape from every room in the house. Keep a flashlight in all rooms to help escape at night. Make sure children can open doors, windows and screens to the escape routes. Teach your children how to report a fire.

5. Feel closed doors with your hand. If the door is hot, don't open it. If it's cool, make this test: open slowly and stay behind the door. If you feel heat or pressure coming through the open door, slam it shut.

6. If you can't get out, stay behind a closed door. any door will serve as a shield.

Officials View End Of Revenue Sharing

If revenue sharing funds dry up at the end of June, 1976, as they are scheduled to, it will mean the loss of funds that have greatly benefitted both Cameron and Milam County, according to city and county officials.

Mayor Gene Blake says he "has doubts" that the funds will continue past the cutoff time because some cities, particularly larger ones, have abused use of the funds and the federal government is taking a dim view of such misuse.

Blake said Cameron will not be jeopardized through loss of the funds, as the city has no on-going projects that depend on revenue sharing to continue. He said some cities have set perpetual programs in force, such as payroll raises which could cause problems if the funds are stopped.

The mayor said Cameron could get along without the funds as the budget is taking care of some items that were supported in part by revenue sharing funds, such as the library and community center. The day care center has also benefitted from revenue sharing, but Blake feels that the city cannot support the center without extra funds.

He said he'd received a letter from one representative who criticized some cities for spending the money on tennis courts, etc, but Blake said the program required that a certain amount of revenue sharing be spent for recreation.

Cameron has bought equipment with revenue sharing funds as has the county. The mayor said Cameron has used revenue sharing to make permanent improvements and they are all paid for, so that the city can get along without revenue sharing if it should end.

County Judge O. B. Harden said loss of revenue sharing would work a hardship on the precincts, as some $200,000 has been alloted them for road and bridge work, and for needed equipment.

The judge pointed out that a new county jail and a new tax office were built without a bond issue solely because the county has been receiving revenue sharing funds. Balance of funds will go to precincts in 1975 and '76, he said.

He said continuance of revenue sharing will keep the county from increasing taxes as inflation keeps taking bigger bites of the dollar.

However, the county won't be in a bind, he said, except hardship will be experienced for road and bridge materials and other supplies and equipment for precincts.

Some 275 Texans met recently in Washington, D. C. to encourage legislators to try to salvage the revenue sharing plan in the country.

During the gathering, Secretary of the Treasury William Simon said if he can expedite it he will, and he seemed to think he could.

A group of legislators and other officials addressed the gathering and a note was received from President Ford boosting everything the group was there for.

REACT Plans 15th Holiday Rest Stop

Milam County REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Team) will hold a holiday rest stop during the Thanksgiving holiday two miles south of Cameron on highways 36 and 77.

According to club president Tom Ivey, the rest stop will be open from 6 p.m. Wednesday, November 26 through 6 p.m. Sunday, November 30 with club members working around the clock in six hour shifts.

This will be the 15th holiday rest stop sponsored by Milam County REACT since its organization in 1971. These rest stops have served over 30,000 guests, untold thousands of cups of free coffee and Cokes. Guests have included travelers from nearly every state and several foreign countries who have stopped to take a "wake break" from the holiday traffic.

Milam County REACT is affiliated with the nationwide REACT organization, which uses citizens band radio to achieve the following objectives:

1. To assist in all forms of local emergencies by furnishing instant radio telephone communications in cooperation with proper authorities and official agencies.

2. To maintain and encourage operating efficiency through proper communication techniques.

3. To operate and maintain equipment at peak efficiency and in accordance with F.C.C. regulations.

4. To promote the proper and effective use of the official CB Emergency Channel.

Over one thousand REACT groups across the nation utilize equipment in the citizens radio service to monitor channel 9 and to provide local two-way radio communications to respond to emergencies.

REACT teams are prepared to provide supplimentary communications in any emergency. Effective local two-way radio communications have been proven valuable when normal avenues of communications have been interrupted because of fire, blizzard, earthquake, flood, hurricane, tornado or other disasters.

Statistics indicate that a total of five million two hundred thousand emergency calls are made by citizens band radio operators in the United States annually, approximately 27 per cent of these are automobile accidents. With one out of every 35 automobiles equipped with CBs many lives can be saved simply because of the time saved in summoning aid.

Membership in Milam County REACT is open to all licensed citizens band operators in the Central Texas area who are interested in using their radios to help the general public. Meetings are held each month rotating between Rockdale and Cameron.

Speaker Appoints Rep. Dan Kubiak To Ed Committee

AUSTIN

Rockdale Rep. Dan Kubiak has been named vice-chairman of a special House committee that will try to find an alternative to the local property tax for financing public schools.

House Speaker Bill Clayton named Rep. Rom Massey of San Angelo to chair the nine-member committee, which will begin its year-long study next January. Massey was chairman of the Public Education Committee during the 64th Legislature, and Kubiak chaired the House Education Committee during the 63rd Legislature.

"In naming this panel, the Speaker has recognized that property owners cannot stand further increases in their tax loads," Kubiak said. "When the next legislature meets, we will try to have a new plan for school finance that will remove the burden from the property tax."

Kubiak said the two-year school finance bill passed by the last legislature has forced property taxes to an unreasonable level in most school districts. He noted that, by 1977, the present school finance system will cause property tax increases in more than two-thirds of all school districts in Texas.

"The special committee will attempt to formulate a new financing method that will be equally fair to urban and rural residents alike," Kubiak said. "It is absolutely clear that the property tax is no longer the way to raise money for our public schools."

Blood Donors Urged To Help

Cameron faces possible loss of its blood program with the Red Cross if the town does not start meeting its quotas at bloodmobile visits.

The Central Texas Red Cross bloodmobile will be here on Tuesday, December 2 and the quota is 73 units.

Hours for the visit will be from 12 noon until 6 p.m. at the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Adjusting Road Priorities..

The Texas Highway Department spent about $23 million on Milam primary and farm-to-market roads from 1960 to this year.

Dist. Engineer Joe Hanover and other Bryan district engineering administrators are convincing in their reports about rebuilding Milam highways in that span of years.

But Hanover explained the other night that inflation, rising energy costs and smaller cars are ending that era.

Hanover also noted installation of a "heavy" light system at the interesection of US 77 and what was US 190 where several major accidents occurred in recent weeks. Unfortunately, statistics come before correction in interesections not anticipated to be particularly hazardous.

Remarks came at a Chamber dinner honoring highway department personnel from Bryan district headquarters and Milam County. Reports were detailed in tracing history of the department's activities in the county, which began with a federal highway act in 1917. Texas was 45th in the states to organize a state program.

Texas highways now are superior to most if not all other state systems. But the heavy construction era of all kinds of highways is ending. The interstate system is nearing completion.

Cameron is fortunate to be the hub of US 190, US 36 and US 77 as well as num- and US 77 as well as numerous farm-to-market spans. Gause through Hanover to US 77 southeast of the city.

It is a story of 15 years of major highway development before major cuts in personnel. We understand this district anticipated the problem about three years ago.

Texas farm roads are better than some state roads in other states. Though we have no four-lane freeways, Milam County has modern two-lane roads with the safety lanes peculiar to Texas' primary two-lane highways.

The job now is to maintain this system during a period of realignment of transportation priorities.

More Of A County...

It seems like an excellent time for Cameron's Industrial Foundation to evaluate alternatives in the prospect of industry oriented to lignite mining within the next five years.

A Shell spokesman said the lignite mined here should be an inducement for cost-impacted industry to look closely at the use of lignite at Milam locations.

We don't need any greater invitation than that. The known impact will be a processing plant for Shell at the least which will employ upward to 300 people. It is the ancillary possibilities which we must explore.

We understand there are 50 years of the stuff to be scraped from veins downward to 200 feet in depth. If Alcoa changed Rockdale and South Milam County for at least 100 years of Alcoa lignite's duration, what will this production mean?

It's time we begin to find out. We think it will mean houses, people and much more of a county.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

RABBIT MEAT WOULD BE USDA INSPECTED

Rep. W. R. Poage (Texas) ". . .The Committee on Agriculture has favorable reported H.R. 10073, calling for mandatory inspection of rabbit meat by the Federal Government. . .

"Presently all meats with the exception of rabbit meat are inspected by the Federal Government. Since rabbit meat is a high quality nutritious meat that is gaining in popularity with the American consumers, the committee sees no reason the Federal Government should not pay for its inspection just as it does for other meats. The bill will require the Department of Agriculture to inspect rabbit meat which will assure the Nation's consumers of a wholesome product. . .

"There is ample evidence that a significant percentage of the domesticated rabbit meat retailed in this country is imported without USDA inspection and is produced under very questionable sanitary conditions. This bill would authorize spot checks of imports and require foreign plants to comply with sanitation standards that are required for other meat imports. . .

"At the present time inspection is available for rabbit processing under a voluntary program in which processor pays for the services. This bill would require mandatory inspection of rabbit processing and assure the uniform certification of the wholesomeness of domesticated rabbits. . .

"Rabbit meat is similar to the white meat or the brest of chicken. In fact, rabbit meat is higher in protein and much lower in fat and cholsterol than other red meats. . .

"Rabbit by-products are important in the production of certain pharmaceuticals. For example, rabbit blood is reduced to plasma for diagnostic purposes while rabbit brains are used to produce thermo plastin for testing the coagulation of human blood in the laboratory. .

"MR. SPEAKER, pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Poage) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill H. R. 10073.

"The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voting in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed. . ."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Being in a position to offer USDA inspected Rabbit Meat would encourage many individuals in rural and small-town areas to supplement their incomes. Only a limited investment would be required

Debate Continues Over New Tax Bill

The debate goes on over whether the legislature will be faced with a billion dollar tax bill in 1977 — or none at all.

Comptroller Bob Bullock stated that if lawmakers continue their recent spending patterns they will have to pass a record tax measure.

But House Speaker Bill Clayton predicted the legislature will be "trying to maintain the status quo" and will avoid growth of the bureaucracy. In spite of Bullock's repeated warnings, Clayton said he is not convinced that a major tax bill will be required.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe at a governmental conference in San Antonio stated government at all levels must become more economical and efficient. He called specifically for "redirection" of spending for education.

State Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler, speaking more harshly, said runaway spending in education may bankrupt the state if it isn't brought under control. He called for a lid on education spending.

Meanwhile, the new Joint Advisory Commission of Government Operations (Little Hoover Commission) held its second meeting and adopted a time-table for a year's inquiry into 250 state units of government. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby warned members to keep their eyes on the big spending areas and avoid "rabbit hunts."

Postponed Again

The Senate for the third time postponed the impeachment trial of District Judge O. P. Carrillo.

By a 16-10 vote, senators delayed the trial until January 5 to await outcome of a Judicial Qualifications Commission hearing and federal court final action on Carrillo's income tax conviction.

Carrillo said he will never resign his post on the Duval-Starr-Jim Hogg counties bench, although he has been suspended since last August following House passage of articles of impeachment.

Court Race On

New Texas Supreme Court Associate Justice Ross E. Doughty of Uvalde decided he will not be a candidate to retain his job in 1976.

Two Court of Civil Appeals chief justices immediately indicated an interest in a race to succeed Doughty who was appointed only about two months ago when Associate Justice Ruel Walker retired.

The prospective candidates are Judge Charles W. Barrow of the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio and Martin Dies Jr. of the Ninth Court in Beaumont.

Barrow says he is definitely going to run. Dies says he is "inclined to" but wants to check his bases of support again.

Courts Speak

Reversing itself, the State Supreme Court agreed to consider whether a landowner, to claim an agricultural tax exemption, must prove 51 per cent of his ov... ...come is derived from farming or ranching.

Third Court of Civil Appeals threw out a State Board of Pharmacy appeal from a district court ruling blocking its enforcement of a limit on advertising prescription drugs. The intermediate court noted an appeal notice already has been filed with the Supreme Court, and two parallel appeals cannot proceed simultaneously.

The Third Court rejected approval by the Savings and Loan Commissioner of a fourth savings and loan association charter for Longview due to rulings on evidence by a hearing officer.

An injunction prohibiting the State Board of Insurance from enforcing a requirement of 90 days' notice for cancellation or premium increases in medical liability policies was upheld by the Third Court.

Improper jury arguments by Dallas prosecutors led to two reversals of cases by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The Supreme Court directed an intermediate court to reconsider a workmen's compensation case in which the lower tribunal earlier had held a Brazoria County chemical worker intentionally jumped off a building.

AG Opinions

A blood sample cannot be legally taken without the consent of a person suspected of a traffic-related offense, Atty. Gen. John Hill stated in a recent opinion. A physician, taking the sample without apparent consent, could be subject to civil liability, Hill stated.

In another recent opinion, Hill concluded those acting under direction of physicians in filling prescriptions do not have benefits of statutory exemptions granted doctors, dentists and chiropodists.

Sales Tax Distributed

Six hundred and seventy cities and towns received October city sales tax rebates totaling $14.5 million.

So far in 1975, the cities have taken as their share of the sales levies $223.7 million — only $10 million short of the total for all 1974.

Indications are the collecting cities will get $25 million to $30 million more this year than in 1974.

Short Snorts

Governor Briscoe told a student group he is still thinking about running for a third term.

The Secretary of State's office is looking into corporate contributions to Texas politicians by major oil companies.

Texas Education Agency will launch a survey to determine how many Mexican pupils are attending the largest schools in Texas.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

After thinking long and hard I have come to the conclusion that the main problem with the world is that it spends too much time trying to solve problems for which there aren't any solutions.

For example, Secretary of State Kissinger has spent the last two or three years flying back and forth between half a dozen countries while we spent 150 billion dollars in Viet Nam--which is enough money to tide New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and several others over till at least Christmas -- and as far as I can tell the problem he was trying to solve are still there.

There are 142 countries in the United Nations, and probably a lot more out there somewhere we haven't heard of who haven't heard of us or the United Nations and for anybody to try to keep up with their internal problems, not to mention solve them, is like asking you to keep up with the name and character of every office-holder in every country within 200 miles of Cameron.

If Congress in Washington and the legislature in Austin would confine their attention only to problems capable of being solved, their meeting time could be reduced by about 75 percent. It doesn't follow that taxes would thereby be reduced, as reducing taxes is one of the problems that can't be solved.

Moreover, this theory doesn't apply just to governments. It applies to all sorts of institutions and catagories, and here's a list of some of the problems that can't be solved: College students. Busing. Teenagers. Your neighbor's dog, Televison programs. Cars. George Wallace Ronald Reagan, Ireland. The Mid-East. The national debt. Family squabbles.

I'm running out of space. I started to list the CIA and the FBI, but there is a solution to those. As I understand it, both outfits have claimed they've been doing what they've been doing because Congress hasn't set up any guidelines for their conduct. Therefore Congress should pass a law making it against the law for the CIA and the FBI to break the law.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

VA Queries Recipients, Parents

Annual income questionnaires were included with Veterans Administration pension checks mailed to 1.3 million recipients in November, Jack Coker, VA Regional Director, reported today. Questionnaires also went to 34,000 parents receiving Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) checks.

Completed questionnaires must be returned to the VA by January 1 to insure continued receipt of benefits, Coker said.

Pensions are paid to veterans and widows of veterans with nonservice-connected disabilities. Amount of the monthly stipend is based on the annual income of the recipient. Also governed by annual income are amounts of DIC payments to certain parents of veterans who died of service-connected causes.

With some exceptions, pensioners are required to file income questionnaires annually. Those 72 years of age or older are exempt from filing, but must report income changes as they occur, Coker explained.

Some beneficiaries who normally are exempt, however, will receive questionnaires because of the cost-of-living increases in annuities, Coker said. Prompt return of questionnaires will avoid suspension or delay of monthly checks in 1976, he added.

County Agent's Notes

Producers Note Wheat Problems

By Bill McCutchen

Several producers have noted problems in their wheat fields recently and have been calling about the possibility of insects or disease.

The problems thus far have been isolated mainly on the end rows with some yellow streaks through the field, and thus far none have turned out to be either insects or disease. The problems have been herbacide damage with the materials thus far either Miloguard or Treflan.

Of course the labels on these materials warn against following with small grains in the fall.

Damage is usually confined to endrows, where equipment was stopped and sprayers continued to operate but in some instances yellowing is noted in strips where herbacides were banded last spring.

Strangley enough, Miloguard seems to be having more effect on small grains than Treflan. This is contrary to what I would have expected.

In any case, as wheat acreage increases in the county this is a good lesson to remember and I hope wheat growers will remember this lesson next year.

Cotton Entomologist Available

Bob Glodt has been hired to work with the cotton pest management programs in Milam and Williamson Counties. Bob is a native of San Angelo and received his training at Texas A&M University.

He will be visiting with producers over the next few weeks and a meeting of those interested in participating in the Cotton Scouting Program will be held probably in December to discuss the program and outline program objectives.

HAVE PUT-OUT POWER

A pressurized fire extinguisher loaded with 3 to 5 pounds of all-purpose (ABC) dry chemical has effective put-out power for home and farm. It's effective on fires involving wood, petroleum products, or electrical equipment. Before you buy, make sure extinguisher has "Underwriters' Laboratories Inspected" printed on label to assure it has passed reliability and performance tests.

ASCS

The basic provision for proven wheat yields are continued under The Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973. Producers may elect to establish a yield for a farm based on actual production rather than use the yield established by the county committee on a judgement basis.

To prove a wheat yield, a producer must have produced wheat on the farm in each of years 1970 through 1974 and be able to provide reliable proof of production. If a producer intends to prove a yield in subsequent years, current year production evidence must be submitted along with evidence for the most recent year of the base period.

Acceptable production evidence is limited to a record of disposition such as bin measurements, sales or warehouse receipts or warehouse ledger sheets.

Such evidence must be identified by the farm and year of production. Adjustments may be necessary for dockage and high mositure content. Another stipulation for proving wheat yields is that wheat acreage must be reported by May 1.

In order to assure consideration, a written request to show proof of production must be filed no later than December 17, 1975. Production data timely received will be considered before mailing 1976 wheat yields.

Anyone needing further information is urged to contact the local ASCS office.

Beneficial Herbicides

Recent tests in Colorado show some herbicides not only control weeds on rangelands, but also increase the protein content of range grasses and protect them from drought.

But Is It Legal?

Thirty-one states have laws regulating weather modification activities within their boundaries.

Ag Finance Of Future Under Study

What will be the economic and political setting of the agricultural finance community at the beginning of the next 100 years of this nation? Texas bankers will take an in-depth look at this question during the upcoming Texas Farm and Ranch Credit School at Texas A&M University, Feb. 9-11, 1976.

"One of the key issues to be discussed will be the role, responsibilities, and opportunities of the financial community in supporting the diverse and growing agricultural production and marketing complex in Texas," says Tom Prater, general program chairman and economist in management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, which is sponsoring the school along with the Texas Bankers Association.

The theme of the school will be built around the American Bicentennial--"Starting the Third Hundred Years."

Keynote speakers, with as much insight as they can muster, will be featured at four general sessions. A General Outlook session will include discussions on grain, cotton, livestock, and the money market.

A second session will concern the implications for agriculture in the areas of politics, marketing, resource control, and financing.

Another session of the bankers school will deal with the role of bank examiners and the mechanics of making agricultural loans. The image of the banker in a community will also be discussed at this session.

A fourth part of the school is designed for the bank director and will deal with his overall responsibilities.

Following the school, a two-day in-depth Agricultural Credit Workshop will be conducted at which participants will analyze financial statements and reconcile farm records.

Gene Garrison, president of the Alice National Bank and chairman of the Agricultural Rural Affairs Committee of the Texas Bankers Association, is working closely with Prater and other committee members in planning the annual event

Hog Graders Demand On The Rise

AUSTIN–The demand for hog grading has increased in West Texas, and as a result, the Texas Department of Agriculture now offers the services of two graders.

The graders are Herb Davis, who works three days a week in Amarillo and Helen Howe, who works four days a week in Lubbock.

The Department now charges a fee of 10 cents per head. A certificate on grades will be issued if desired.

The Department can serve feeder pig sales, or direct marketing activities on hogs or any other type of livestock, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said. Producers should contact the Department offices in Austin.

Texas Pecans Growers Expect 40-Million Pound Harvest In '75

AUSTIN--Despite problems with insects, disease and excessive rainfall, Texas pecan growers are expecting to harvest about 40 million pounds of pecans this year, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported.

If the estimates hold, this harvest will be 2 million pounds larger than last year's.

Pecan scab is causing the most problems this year. Caused by excessive rainfall during July and August, it is especially bad from Central Texas southward to coastal areas. It is contributing to pecan drop in some areas.

North Texas pecan growers are having problems with powdery mildew and some honeydew and scab.

Insects which are affecting the pecan crop are pecan weevil and pecan nut casebearer, which attack the nut; hickory shuckworm, which ruins the shuck; and webworms, walnut caterpillar and tent caterpillar, which feed on pecan tree foliage.

Webworms are troublesome this year in areas that were not sprayed last year.

Last year's pecan crop was valued at $16,055,000.

Plow-Up Deadline Nov 30

AUSTIN

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has reminded local cotton farmers that midnight November 30 is the plow-up deadline for Milam County.

Harvest for the county is almost complete with scrapping operations to continue for the next several weeks. Statewide harvest is 32 percent complete which is on schedule with the 3-year average.

Market activity in most areas has been slow with both foreign and domestic demand remaining light. Prices have been weak to low, and some mixed lots are eraging 44-45 cents per pound

According to the November crop report released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Texas cotton production should reach 2.8 million bales, up only 12 percent from the short 1974 crop of 2,462,000 bales. However, the projected crop is down some 300,000 bales from earlier estimates, as dry weather on the High Plains cut into this year's production.

In Central and East Texas production has falled sharply --around 100,000 bales--from last year since farmers converted much of their acreage to grain sorghum.

Fourth Graders Produce Traffic Safety Filmstrip

Fourth grade students in the classes of Mrs. Diane Anderson, Miss Patsy Beck, Mrs. Sue Fuquay, David Johnson, and Jesse White at Ada Henderson Elementary School have produced a colorful filmstrip for the Governor's Office of Traffic Safety in Austin.

The title of the film is "The Safest Show on Earth." Materials are provided by the Governor's Office of traffic Safety for the purpose of stimulating youngsters to become more aware of pedestrian, bicycle, and passenger safety fundamentals.

In the Safety Ranger Program, students create their own illustrations. These illustrations are reproduced in Austin by Canson Associates Limited, designer of the program.

Each class receives a custom produced filmstrip using work done by that class. The filmstrip and a sound recording become the property of the school.

Last year nearly 250,000 Texas school children participated in the Safety Ranger Program. The program is offered free to all Texas 4th grade classrooms this fall.

Program Stresses Importance Of Early Mother-Baby Contact

by Mitzi L. Duxbury, Ph.D.
Director of Health Personnel Development
The National Foundation-March of Dimes

EYE CONTACT is one of the chief ways a mother and baby get acquainted. The bond begins to form while each studies the other's face. As the mother holds the baby close and talks to it, the infant also learns to recognize its mother by smell, touch, and sound.

"Mothering" brings to mind an intense bond which grows naturally between mother and child. But sometimes, for reasons only now becoming clear, the bond does not form.

Recent studies suggest that real mothering may never develop unless the mother has intimate contact with her baby soon after birth.

Research on human child-rearing practices strongly indicates that there is an "attachment" period immediately following birth, during which a mother is emotionally ready to get acquainted with her newborn. This acquaintance process involves looking, touching, kissing, and feeding.

All-Important Time

Evidence indicates that her behavior toward her child may be altered for months or years after birth if the bond is not formed at this "critical period." Without early stimulation from the mother, the baby may also fail to develop an interest in people and objects outside himself.

The idea that early parent-child emotional bonding is important is not new. A 13th century experiment ordered by Holy Roman Emperor Frederick II illustrated the necessity for early if not immediate interaction between parents and baby.

Frederick was curious about what language youngsters would speak when they grew up if no one had ever talked to them. He separated newborns from their parents and placed the babies with a caretaker who fed, bathed, and clothed the infants but never spoke to them. All the children died, quite possibly because of lack of human contact.

Recognizing the importance of early emotional bonding, The National Foundation-March of Dimes supports an educational program that prepares nurses to help new parents make the most of the newborn attachment period.

The program, developed by Dr. Kathryn Barnard, professor of nursing at the University of Washington in Seattle, is designed for use in local hospitals. It integrates classroom training with background reading and audio-visual material.

Nurse's Role

It emphasizes what a nurse can do to aid parents in adjusting to their new role. She is trained to evaluate "signs of acquaintance" between parents and baby. Particular emphasis is placed on direct eye contact between the mother and baby during feeding.

In addition to providing nurses with this special training, many hospitals in the country have the mother and baby share the same room. At Duke University Hospital in Durham, N.C., this has been so successful that calls to the doctor from anxious mothers during the first week at home have decreased by an estimated ninety per cent.

Nursery Visits

Most hospitals also offer alternatives to parents who are separated from their baby because of prematurity, low birthweight, or critical illness. Realizing that this is a severe deprivation for both the parents and infant, doctors and nurses urge them to visit the intensive care nursery and sing, talk to, and touch their baby as much as possible.

March of Dimes involvement in this aspect of nursing education arises from the growing awareness that every woman must feel confident and comfortable with her maternal role in order to form a healthy mother-infant bond.

Wider Stud Spacing Saves On Additions

When adding new space to your home or partitioning basement or attic, space those wall studs at 24 inches, instead of the traditional 16 inches.

This can save both dollars and time, and is accepted under all model codes. Check with your local building inspectors.

To lessen the possibility of splitting boards, predrill at 3/4 of the diameter of nails or screws.

If you are skiing out in the woods with an amiable companion, you can revel in the white beauty of the snow. If, on the other hand, you are on a city street, facing an icy wind, you may feel quite differently about the matter.

Isn't that the way it is with almost everything? The way we react to a situation so often depends upon the way it affects us personally. We aren't to be blamed for this; yet we should stop to think that there are two sides to every story. We should not judge the merit of a viewpoint on whether or not it agrees with our own opinion.

The Church is used to different viewpoints, to controversy. It has lived with changing times and opinions for centuries, and it has never been more involved than it is today. The Church is changing as change is needed, ever ready to investigate and to explore the new. Have you been keeping up with it?

Mark is president of 60,000 Texas FFA members who are a part of the 500,000 national FFA membership.

Mark was also the program speaker for the annual Lions-Rotary Thanksgiving luncheon held at the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Special guests with Mark were his father, Dick Ellison, Vo-Ag teacher Mr. Phillips, Area III supervisor of the Texas Education Agency Billy Yons and Rep. Dan Kubiak.

About 100 Yoe FFA members and over 90 Lions and Rotarians enjoyed Mark's comments.

Receving journeyman cards as welders were Grover C. Morgan, John C. Collier, James C. Beasley, and R. D. Ahrendt. New crane millrights are Tom E. Martin and James S. Vavra. Larry G. Drosche was graduated as an electrician and Jimmy W. Ellis as a brickmason. There are 12 crafts in Alcoa's apprentice training program.

Bill Hogan of the U. S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Apprentice Training, was guest speaker for the gathering of graduates and their wives. Fred P. Bergeron, Alcoa's Texas area manager, also congratulated the new journeymen.

Other Alcoans in attendance besides Jim Jones, training supervisor at the Central Texas plant, were James Lemezis, chairman of the apprentice steering committee; Herb Franseen, Allen Menke, and Bill Eckert, members of the committee; and Ross Cox, representing Ed Remaley, also a committee member.

Tints Heighten Room Harmony

Tinting may be just the trick to blend a wood accent wall with a room's carpeting, draperies and furniture.

Pastel blue, mustard gold and sage green are just a few of the colors possible with light stains that retain wood's rich grain pattern and texture.

Ponderosa pine, white pine and Engelmann spruce are low-resin woods that are well suited to interior staining.

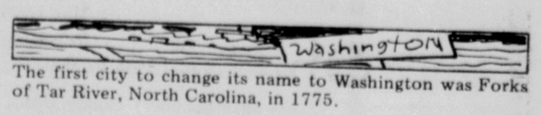
Rate Kitchen On 5 Points

Five areas are included on a list the American Institute of Kitchen Dealers uses to rate kitchens: storage space, work space, appliances, ventilation and lighting.

Homeowners who are do-it-yourselfers can use this to spotlight areas of their kitchens that can be improved without the expense of calling in professionals.

The first two areas, storage and work space, often need updating because of the change in food packaging and cooking patterns in the last decade. One kitchen may need additional cabinets framed in while another requires cosmetic treatment.

An open, informal mood can be added with sets of exposed shelves of 2x8-inch western wood. An accent wall or two of solid board paneling, applied diagonally, lifts the kitchen out of the ordinary.



The first city to change its name to Washington was Forks of Tar River, North Carolina, in 1775.

LARRY MAHAN: WORLD'S CHAMPION ALL-AROUND COWBOY

Conlee's Top Hand was the Number One Yielder in nine Texas official experimental stations.

A free sack of Conlee's TOP HAND grain sorghum seed. And a good Buck Knife to open it with. That's my offer.

Larry Mahan

Here's a real winner. . .a free sack of Top Hand with every ten you buy. . and, a famous Buck Maskrat Knife for early bookings.

That's my offer. I'm Larry Mahan. I've misjudged a lot of broncs in my time, but there's one thing I'm sure of. . . .

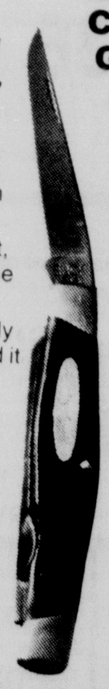
When it comes to making you a bundle of profit, Conlee's Top Hand grain sorghum is "a cut above the rest".

Top Hand is a yellow endosperm, medium to early maturing hybrid. It's disease and drouth tolerant, and it comes on strong with irrigation.

Top Hand produces big, high quality heads that dry fast, thresh clean. And, it really stays with the Texas weather 'cause it has an extra large root system that's stout as a bull.

Plant Top Hand this season. Convince yourself it'll out perform all the rest. See your seed dealer about my offer right away. A free sack of Conlee Top Hand . . . and a $13.00 Buck Muskrat Knife any man would be proud to carry.

See your dealer or call
Conlee Seed, Texas Toll Free 800-792-2215



HERE IS WHAT SOME TOP CENTRAL TEXAS MILO GROWERS SAY:

IRA BELL, JR.—BASTROP
I planted Top Hand row and broadcast for the 1975 crop year. Row yielded 4000 lbs. and broadcast 3500 lbs. I've planted Top Hand for 6 years and will plant all of my acreage in it again for 1976.
The combiners say it thrashed real good and cleaned out mighty good. I would recommend it.

E.C. BOECKER—BUCKHOLTS
Top Hand yields as well or better than any other hybrid I've planted and it is consistant year in and year out.

FRED RICHTER—THRALL
I like Top Hand because it is consistant. It's about the highest yielding hybrid we have found for year after year production.
In 1975 we got a good stand the first time we planted, and several of my neighbors had to replant their competitive hybrids.
IN A WORD—IT'S DEPENDABLE.

MARVIN LENZ—TAYLOR
I plant Top Hand because year in and year out it has been one of the highest producing hybrids I have found. I like the short, sturdy stalks, and excellent root system.
After all—a top yield is great but it has to be in the elevator before you can cash it in.

CONLEE It's a cut above the rest.

Yoe Faces 7th Ranked McGregor

It won't be the 'kissing cousins from McGregor' but instead the 'speeding cousins,' Gene and Tony that will pose as part of the roblem for the Yoemen when they face McGregor in the Regional playoff game Friday night at Temple's Wildcat Stadium.

Coach Cauley calls the cousins, quick, tough, fast, and cuts back well for not only #44 Tony Hicks but also for #33 Gene Hicks.

Big, quick, and even tough are characteristics of the Bulldogs who have went 10--Bulldogs who have gone 10-1 for the season, losing their only game early in the season to Dallas St. Marks.

The Bulldogs have put special emphasis on this game since the scrimmage that the Yoemen had with Gatesville where neither team scored. The week after McGregor whipped Gatesville.
ville, giving them the idea that they should own that number one state rating.

The Bulldogs have more talent than televisions does detective shows. Their defense acts as an 'extra' offense, gathering in points past three games the Bulldogs have blocked four points to set up the 'Dog offense' in good field position and in the final game to score a needed score to win.

Willie Sneed will be guiding the Bulldog offense with his strong suit in his running backs . Sneed will set up the running game to break open his passing game.

The offensive line average is 181 pounds per man, behind the experience of tackles Ricky McMullen and Clarence Morgan. Sneed's favorite receivers will be Robert Daniels and Paul Fox.

The offense will be running from the familiar Poer I with the dives and traps their favorite plays.

Stunting isn't familiar to the Yoemen and the Bulldogs will try their luck against the powerful and awesome Yoe offense.

The defense will be holding off the Yoe attack with an average of 186 pounds on the line and 166 in the secondary. The defense will line up in a Split 6 defense set and will go into a 7 man line on short yardage.

Cauley lamented, "If McGregor has a weak point it is in their kicking game. Everywhere else they are strong."

The winner of the regional game will advance to quarter-finals facing either Hamshire-Fannet or Columbus.

The Friday night game in Temple is scheduled at 8 p.m. with the Yoemen representing the home team.

Girls Lose To Lexington

The Yoe High girls basketball teams traveled to Lexington to suffer double defeats in their season opener.

It was the first time for the girls to hit the hardwoods and traveling to an experienced and seasoned Lexington teams. The junior varsity girls were downed, 35-6. In the other Yoe game the girls were defeated 38-20.

Also playing their first girls game of the season and the first ever in the history of O.J. Thomas Jr. High the 7th and 8th graders lost to Rosebud-Lott Jr. High.

In the seventh grade action the Yoettes lost 25-10. Also losing was the eighth grade team, falling 35-20.

PEARS FOR HEALTH

Galen, the celebrated Greek physician, was convinced that pears had therapeutic value.

SPORT SPOTLIGHT

By FORREST GUESS

JINX. . .

Is Wildcat Stadium really a jinx? According to some of the Yoemen fans there is really something, other than ability, for the Yoemen losing streak at Temple.

Well, if and I do say if, there is such a thing as a jinx this should be the year that the Yoemen can break that "jinx." With the depth and talent that the Yoemen possess could play on anyone's homefield and still emerge as victor.

It seems that it would be harder to win on one's homefield than on a mutual site. I can't forget how well the Yoemen did against Llano on their home soil.

Let's prove the jinx theory incorrect and show the Bulldogs that there is a difference between #1 and #7.

GIRLS. . .

As the football team continues to win, there are other sports going on. . .The girls will be playing a junior varsity schedule the first season and will advance into a varsity schedule next season.

The high school girls will play their next home game Monday against Rogers. The game-time has been scheduled for 6 p.m.

Its been a long time coming, and I hope to see a great public involvement in the total girls athletic program. I hope that the boys program will compliment the girls program in the spirit and tradition of Yoe High.

PLEASURE. . .

As one individual asked high school Principal Jack Chubb, "Are you'll a rich school?" What led up to this question was the fine half-time performance of the Yoe High Band and football team.

Mr. Chubb said, after the man left, "We are rich, in other ways than money, we have a fine student body, a fine band and a fine football team. We are rich with pride and it's a pleasure to be able to show-off to the state how much pride we do have."

How true. It truly is a pleasure to watch Yoe High in all areas to prove the fact of Yoe High Pride.

CAULEY SAID. . .

"We were pleased with the victory, but we wondered what was wrong at first. We know what to expect and if they don't perform as well as they did on the best night we sometimes aren't pleased.

"We know that it is hard to have a 'best' night every-night. We played some tough defense and started stacking the line up after starting a little soft.

"Michael White and Jafus White both had fine nights. Jafus ran out of gas in the fourth quarter.
